The S&P 500[®] Total Return Index measures the performance of the broad US equity market, including dividend reinvestment, in Canadian dollars. This index is provided for information only and comparisons to the index have limitations. The benchmark is an appropriate standard against which the performance of the Partnership can be measured over longer time periods as it represents the primary investment universe from which Bristol Gate selects securities. However, Bristol Gate's portfolio construction process differs materially from that of the benchmark and the securities selected for inclusion in the Partnership are not influenced by the composition of the benchmark. For example, the Partnership is a concentrated portfolio of approximately equally weighted dividend-paying equity securities, rebalanced quarterly whereas the benchmark is a broad stock index (including both dividend and non-dividend paying equities) that is market capitalization weighted. As such, Partnership performance deviations relative to the benchmark may be significant, particularly over shorter time periods. The Partnership has concentrated investments in a limited number of companies; as a result, a change in one security's value may have a more significant effect on the Partnership's value.

State Street[®] SPDR[®] S&P 500[®] ETF Trust (SPY US) sourced from Bloomberg has been used as a proxy for the S&P 500[®] Total Return Index for the purpose of providing some of the non-return based portfolio statistics and sector weightings in this factsheet. SPY US is an ETF that seeks to provide investment results that, before expenses, correspond generally to the price and yield performance of the S&P 500[®] Index.

Conversion to Canadian dollars is calculated using the prevailing Canadian/United States dollar exchange rate as at the date at which the Net Asset Value was determined.
